

OEV Sidewalk Sale: June 6

On June 6, head on down to the Old East Village on Dundas Street between Adelaide and Rectory for food, entertainment, and of course, one-of-a-kind deals. The popular event is held from 10am to 5pm and coincides this year with the Fringe Festival. Ebenezer's - a funky, newer shop dealing in vintage wares, furniture, and collectibles - is involved with the street sale. "I really want the rest of London who don't frequent the Old East because of preconceived ideas to come down to the sale and to Fringe, to see and experience the changes that are happening, and discover some great shops and some wonderful restaurants," said store owner and Old East resident Malcolm Watson. "I have been here in business for 15 years and I can definitely see a turnaround in the neighbourhood. Give this community the chance to show London we are moving positively ahead as well, as show you a great time," he invited. Furthermore, be sure to stop at 696 Dundas Street, 11am, to catch a live performance by Cordcalling. The local art-rock duo will be showcasing material from their new album, currently being recorded at EMAC Studios.
